January 29, 2004 LB 172

have come to the Legislature in the meantime care about a zygote, a fetus, an embryo, but as soon as the fetus passes out of the birth canal, there is no concern. You don't see Senator Foley or any of those people running around here trying to put how we need to protect children in every statute that might possibly or conceivably relate to the welfare of children because they have been taught, instructed, and programmed to be concerned about zygotes, embryos, and fetuses, and it cuts off. Then to try to make it appear that they have some kind of different point of view, they'll bring a bill that is tangential to something that pertains to children but that's just a throwaway to try to make it appear he and they are not "one-ideaed" individuals. But everybody on the floor knows I am not going to bite my tongue and pretend that things which are a certain way are not. These matters need to be laid on the record. They need to be expressed publicly, and it needs to be made clear that we have a felonist, Julie Schmit-Albin, who is the self-righteous, self-appointed keeper of young women pregnant when they don't want to be. Now she chose to commit a felon, and she chose to take the easy way out. She wanted mercy. She did not want that felony charge to go to trial. She had committed a crime. She had committed a wrong. And if she was as self-righteous and holy as she pretends to be, she would have taken her punishment. But when she saw a way to escape, when she saw a way to abort the process, she jumped on that opportunity and aborted it. But when it comes to young women,...

SPEAKER BROMM: One minute.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: ...who should have information so they can make a choice, and if they make the choice have some knowledge and realistic and correct information about it, she wants them to have none of it. Well, I don't take my directions from a felonist who committed a crime of sneakiness, dishonesty, and lying, intercepting other people's communications in violation of the law, encouraging another person to do such things and pass the ill-gotten fruits of that criminal activity on to her to be used. And in what area? This area of their antiabortion obsession. It makes them do criminal acts while talking about everybody else is criminal. I'm in favor of information, and
